

MASTERING PEACE

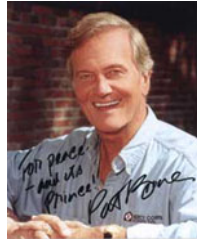

mastering Peace is a world-class educational media package now available for sponsorship. Aimed at teenagers and young adults, the program deals with the question: “Will there be world peace?”

Mastering Peace is based on a 30-minute documentary video, including a series of interviews with highly respected public figures from science, business, education, entertainment and religion.

The program will take its audience on a journey into a new way of thinking. It will show that

- it is not the world that needs to be fixed; it is the people;
- there is nothing tangible that could be called “the world”;
- there is no realistic hope for world peace;
- we are restless and unhappy because we have not found the real source of peace and happiness;
- as long as there is no peace within us, there will always be war outside.

Walter Cronkite

Dan Millman

Sidney Taurel

Denzel Washington

The directorial style will be visually exciting and intellectually stimulating, but also solution-oriented. Short interviews, computer graphics, animations, voice-over and a cutting-edge educational concept will be combined to attract attention, stimulate interest and invite the viewer to become part of the solution.

“All works of love
are works of peace.”

—Mother Teresa

The program will be released in English, German and Spanish versions for worldwide TV broadcast. An interactive DVD will provide the pathway and tools for action. It will be available for schools, universities, churches, community groups and individuals.

“We look forward to the time when the Power of Love will replace the Love of Power.
Then will our world know the blessings of peace.”

—William Gladstone

Copies of the video will be sent to the Education Ministries of all 185 UN member states.
